

DEVELOPMENT SERVICES MEMO

DATE: 07/01/2025

TO: Planning Commission and Citizen Advisory Committee

FROM: Development Services Department

SUBJECT: Review Draft #1: Housing Element Goals & Policies & Housing Choices

OBJECTIVES

1. Obtain clear recommendations from the Planning Commission (PC) and Citizen Advisory Committee (CAC) regarding:
  - a. Preferred alternatives for existing lot development in the Single-Family zoning districts (R-1 and RO zones).
  - b. Preferred methods to incorporate multi-family development in the General Commercial district (C-2 zone).
  - c. Preferred alternatives for future multi-family zoning districts (R-2, R-3, and R-4).
2. To inform the Planning Commission and CAC about State mandated requirements to incorporate emergency shelters, emergency housing, transitional housing, permanent supportive housing, adult family homes, assisted living facilities, group homes, behavioral health residential facilities, and recovery residence/oxford house uses into different zoning designations throughout different parts of the City.

BACKGROUND

As discussed at the last PC and CAC meetings there are several State laws required to be implemented by local governments before December 31, 2025. Should these laws not be implemented State law will apply and the City will be unable to regulate under our existing codes not in compliance with these provisions. The referenced State laws include:

- Middle Housing: authorizing additional units on all existing residential lots greater than 1,000 square feet (sf) in size (RCW 36.70A.635). Attached is a handout from the Department of Commerce providing an overview of Middle Housing (this handout can also be downloaded by clicking HERE). As you read through these materials please keep in mind:
  - Mount Vernon is classified as a “Tier 2” city; and,
  - In Mount Vernon the only “major transit” stop is Skagit Station.
- Accessory Dwelling Units (ADUs): authorizing two ADUs on all residential lots - interim regulations are in effect and final regulations must be adopted (RCW 36.70A.681 and §680)
- Design Review: clear and objective regulations governing the exterior design of new development (RCW 36.70A.630)

While addressing compliance with the above-identified State laws the Department will also be working on the below-listed additional code amendments anticipated to also be adopted by the end of 2025:

- Accommodating multi-family uses in the General Commercial (C-2) district; and,
- Accommodating housing for those that are homeless and other vulnerable populations, referred to as STEP housing by the WA State Department of Commerce. Attached to this memo is a handout with additional information regarding STEP housing, this handout can also be downloaded by clicking HERE.

REQUESTS:

The materials attached to this memo provide several different options for the PC and CAC to review and discuss. The housing options provided focus on density and intensity of development. Once staff have input from the PC, CAC, and City Council on these questions they will be able to prepare draft development regulations and options for further consideration. As such, staff requests:

1. Review of and input on the density and intensity questions contained on the following two pages.
2. Review of and input on the attached draft Goals and Policies for the Housing Element.
3. Review of the attached missing middle and STEP materials.

Middle Housing Quick Guide

This quick guide provides an overview for the public and elected and appointed officials about what middle housing is and how it may be regulated. For a more detailed overview of middle housing requirements, see Commerce’s User Guide and Model Ordinances. Middle housing laws are codified as RCW 36.70A.635, 36.70A.636, 36.70A.637, and 36.70A.638.

Middle housing is a type of moderate density housing required to be addressed in policies for all cities and counties fully planning under the Growth Management Act (RCW 36.70A.070(2)(2)(b)). Additionally, seventy-seven cities are required to adopt middle housing regulations consistent with RCW 36.70A.635. Many other cities are choosing to allow various middle housing options in support of their moderate density policies and as a tool to increasing housing affordability to all economic segments.

Duplex

Fourplex

Courtyard Apartments

Cottage Housing

Townhouses

Middle housing is defined as “buildings that are compatible in scale, form, and character with single-family houses and contain two or more attached, stacked, or clustered homes including duplexes, triplexes, fourplexes, fiveplexes, sixplexes, townhouses, stacked flats, courtyard apartments, and cottage housing”<sup>1</sup>.

Middle housing key concepts

Middle housing refers to housing types with forms and densities that fall “between” single family homes and multi-family buildings. Middle housing may be comprised of 2-6 units per lot, regardless of lot size or of any adopted dwelling per acre standards. RCW 36.70A.635 requires that applicable cities regulate density in applicable residential zones in a way that has not commonly been done in the past.

Depending on a city’s location and population<sup>2</sup>, middle housing is required to be allowed on all lots zoned predominantly for residential use, in the following ways:

- Tier 1 cities (over 75,000 population) are required to allow at least four units per lot. This increases to at least six units per lot when within one-quarter mile walking distance of a major transit stop or when at least two units are affordable housing
- Tier 2 cities (25,000 – 75,000) are required to allow at least two units per lot. This increase to at least four units per lot when within one-quarter mile walking distance of a major transit stop or when at least one unit is affordable housing
- Tier 3 cities (under 25,000) are required to allow two units per lot.

Middle housing types

Middle housing is defined as duplexes, triplexes, fourplexes, fiveplexes, sixplexes, townhouses, stacked flats, courtyard apartments, and cottage housing.

- Tier 1 and 2 cities are required to allow at least six of the nine middle housing types
- Tier 3 cities should allow duplexes, stacked flats, courtyard apartments, and cottage housing

Development review

State statute, RCW 36.70A.635\(6\)\(b\), requires that dimensional, infrastructure and other standards (including setback, lot coverage, stormwater, clearing, and tree canopy and retention requirements) for middle housing be no more restrictive than standards applied to detached single-family residences. If applying design review for middle housing, only administrative design review may be required.

Additionally, middle housing must be processed using the same development permit and environmental review processes that apply to detached single-family residences, unless otherwise required by state law. Middle housing requirements do not apply to portions of a lot, parcel, or tract designated with critical areas or their buffers.

Parking standards

Parking standards are established for middle housing to encourage use of alternative transportation and support infill development.

- No off-street parking may be required for middle housing units within one-half mile walking distance of a major transit stop, as defined in RCW 36.70A.030
- On lots greater than 6,000 square feet, a maximum of two off-street parking spaces may be required
- Lots less than 6,000 square feet, a maximum of one off-street parking space may be required

These parking requirements may be waived if an empirical parking study is submitted to Commerce shows that the application of the parking requirements will be significantly less safe for vehicle drivers or passengers, pedestrians, or bicyclists. The empirical parking study guidance and checklist are on the Planning for Middle Housing webpage.

Accessory dwelling unit (ADU)

Cities have the policy choice of whether or not to count accessory dwelling units towards middle housing unit density. By excluding ADUs to count toward middle housing unit density, a property owner could develop both middle housing (such as a duplex) and up to two ADUs, pursuant to RCW 36.70A.681.

Zero lot line short subdivision – unit lot subdivision

All cities, towns, and counties shall include in their short plat regulations procedures for unit lot subdivisions allowing division of a parent lot into separately owned unit lots. Portions of the parent lot not subdivided for individual unit lots shall be owned in common by the owners of the individual unit lots, or by a homeowners' association comprised of the owners of the individual unit lots.

The unit lot subdivision provides a tool for affordable home ownership while retaining the development standards of the parent lot.

Water and sewer

Water and sewer utility purveyors (cities, special districts, and private purveyors) should have flexible requirements for the design of water and sewer connections to middle housing lots and buildings. There are advantages and disadvantages to centralized and shared lateral connections and metering, and there may be different ownership arrangements, cost implications, and other reasons that require a variety of approaches.

For example, a sixplex developer should be able to choose between having a master meter maintained by a homeowner's association and having separate meters for each unit.

Commerce's resources and assistance is readily available to help navigate these requirements. If you have any questions or concerns, and/or require technical assistance, please contact me at (509) 606-3509 or Ethan.Porter@commerce.wa.gov.

Potential Building Forms

- Single-site congregate living is a building where occupants have private living quarters and share communal spaces, like kitchens and bathrooms. Single-site congregate living may also be referred to as a Single-Resident Occupancy (SRO) unit depending on a local jurisdiction's regulations. For more information, see the Municipal Research and Services Center of article: Types of Affordable Housing.
- Tiny houses and tiny houses with wheels are dwellings to be used as permanent housing with permanent provisions for living, sleeping, eating, cooking, and sanitation built in accordance with the state building code (RCW 35.21.686).
- Tiny Shelters, as defined in the forthcoming Housing Trust Fund (HTF) Handbook, are temporary shelters that do not have the amenities of a single dwelling unit, and rely on shared facilities for dining, laundry and bathrooms. Structure may or may not be on a foundation. For HTF funding, Washington State Building Code will be required when supplemental standards are adopted.
- Safe parking provides a designated area for individuals living in their vehicles to park. RVs are not intended for long-term living except in manufactured home parks, where they must be allowed, and local governments may designate other areas where they may be allowed (RCW 35.21.684). Although it is recognized that RVs are used for long-term housing in many places.
- A crisis shelter is a transient accommodation, at a permanent physical location, providing emergency or planned lodging services to a specific population, for periods of less than thirty days. A crisis shelter may or may not be reimbursed for services in the form of rental fee or labor (WAC 246-360-010\(8\)).

Policy 1.1: Accommodate a variety of housing types including single-family, moderate density, and multifamily, that are attractive and compatible in design, and available to all economic segments of the community, with special consideration for extremely low-, low-, and moderate-income households.	Added specificity on housing types and income levels to more closely align with Commerce guidance and GMA updates.  Consider if this could be combined with Housing Affordability section below
H-P-1.1.1	The Comprehensive Plan shall provide housing capacity for all market segments to meet the growth targets identified for the City of Mount Vernon in the Skagit County Population and Employment Allocation adopted by County-Wide Planning Policies.	Policy 1.2: Provide housing capacity for households at all income levels to meet the growth targets identified for the City of Mount Vernon in the Skagit County Population and Employment Allocation adopted by County-Wide Planning Policies.	Updated to replace “market segments” with income bands to align with HB1220 framework.
H-P-1.1.2	In recognition of community needs, the City shall maintain a variety of future land use classifications and implement zoning to accommodate a range of housing types with varying densities and sizes.	Policy 1.3: Maintain a variety of future land use classifications and implement zoning to accommodate a range of housing types with varying densities and sizes.	No change
H-P-1.1.3	Continue the use of opportunities and incentives through the Planned Unit Development (PUD) process for a variety of housing types and site planning techniques that can achieve the maximum housing potential of the site while being designed in consideration of surrounding properties and the natural environment.	Policy 1.4: Continue to promote the use of Planned Unit Developments (PUDs) as a tool to encourage innovative and flexible site design, fostering creative housing solutions that maximize the development potential of a site. Emphasize design approaches that integrate a variety of housing types, respond sensitively to the natural environment, and incorporate sustainable and context-sensitive planning techniques.	Revised to address role of PUDs in providing an option to allow for flexible design. Removed “in consideration of surrounding properties” based on findings of RDI policy audit that vague language around compatibility can potentially create barriers to some housing types.

			Consider adding language to ensure others are aware PUDs are not an infill tool and are intended to be used on sites greater than 10-acres in size.
H-P-1.1.4	Continue to promote plans and policies that encourage in-fill residential projects in close proximity to neighborhood centers, shopping and retail facilities, parks, transit routes and other service uses.	Policy 1.5: Continue to promote plans and policies that encourage in-fill residential projects in close proximity to neighborhood centers, shopping and retail facilities, parks, transit routes and other service uses.	No change
H-P-1.1.5	Continue to promote plans and regulations that allow incentives such as bonus densities and flexible design standards that support and promote the construction of new innovative or affordable housing styles, compatible with the planned uses of surrounding sites. Ground related housing types such as cottages, townhouses, zero lot line developments and other types are examples of housing choices that promote individuality and ownership opportunities. Consider adopting new development regulations that would offer new ways to encourage these types of housing choices.	Policy 1.6: Continue to promote plans and regulations that allow incentives such as bonus densities and flexible design standards that support and promote the construction of a variety of housing types, including subsidized affordable housing and affordable ownership housing.	Retained general language about promoting affordable housing and typologies, removed specific mention of zero lot line townhomes and additional duplexes which have been adopted in MVMC 16.34 and 17.15.
H-P-1.1.6	Continue to implement zoning requirements for manufactured homes on single family lots and ensure they provide for appropriate location and design criteria and meet state requirements.	Policy 1.7: Continue to implement zoning requirements for manufactured homes on single family lots and ensure they provide for appropriate location and design criteria that are not more stringent than criteria for single-family homes and meet state requirements.	Added clarifying language that mobile homes should not be subject to more stringent standards than single-family homes, based on findings of the RDI policy analysis.
H-P-1.1.7	Continue to promote high density development and re-development in the Central Business District (C-1 zone). Analyze ways to allow housing that steps-down, or transitions, in density immediately surrounding the Central Business District. Consider completing a sub-area plan to include areas surrounding the existing C-1 zone to evaluate whether or not this zone should be expanded to these abutting areas.	Policy 1.8: Continue to promote high density development and re-development in the Central Business District (C-1 zone) Analyze ways to allow housing that steps-down, or transitions, in density immediately surrounding the Central Business District.	Removed some sections due to adoption of South Kincaid Subarea Plan and implementing regulations in MVMC 17.45 and 17.70
H-P-1.1.8		Policy 1.9: Consider allowing multifamily and mixed-use housing in parts of the General Commercial land use district to help meet housing needs at all income levels. Focus on adding housing near jobs to improve access to employment and support mixed-use neighborhoods.	New policy to reflect current analysis underway as part of the Comprehensive Plan process.
